

ACADEMIC EXCELLENCE AWARD FOR ADJUNCT FACULTY

Chris Cartwright, Ed.D. '12

CHRIS CARTWRIGHT, ED.D. teaches in the Department of International and Global Studies. His teaching and research areas include intercultural, inclusive, and global competency; leadership; assessment of student learning; service-learning; and social justice. He is the science editor for the Society for Intercultural Education, Training, and Research-USA (SIETAR-USA) newsletter.

Cartwright earned his doctorate from the Graduate School of Education at Portland State University. He earned his Master of Public Administration (MPA) from Indiana University, Purdue University at Indianapolis and his Bachelor of Arts in economics degree from the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor.

He teaches two courses for PSU, Understanding Your International Experience and Global Leadership and Change. He strives to enhance his learners' perspectives of themselves and the diverse people they meet through highly interactive course work emphasizing multimodal assessment, reflection, and practice of competency development. He has taught courses for PSU in the M.B.A. and the Training & Development programs.

As an assessment consultant and trainer, he supports individuals and organizations in assessing and developing intercultural, global, and inclusive competencies and leadership capacity. He has more than 40 years of experience in multiple sectors. He is a frequent conference presenter regionally, nationally, and internationally, offering papers, panel discussions, and workshops for associations and organizations with a focus on the intersections of leadership, intercultural competence and service.

Cartwright is originally from Battle Creek, Michigan and lived, worked, or studied in Bloomington, Indiana; Cambridge, Massachusetts and Nottingham, United Kingdom. He lives near Northeast Portland with his wife, Dr. Lisa Hoberg, a veterinarian. They enjoy living in their more than 100-year-old bungalow, gardening, cooking, yoga, urban walks, and their pets.

The Adjunct Faculty Excellence Award for Research was created to recognize and honor the outstanding contributions of Portland State University adjunct instructors in the area of research.
