Campus safety listening forums scheduled for Oct. 30–Nov. 1

Margolis Healy, an independent security consulting firm Portland State hired to review campus safety policies and procedures following the officer-involved fatal shooting of Jason Washington, will hold nine listening forums on campus Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 30 to Nov. 1. PSU encourages students, faculty, staff and community members to attend one of the 90-minute forums and provide feedback to the consultant. READ MORE

PSU earns top green college ranking

Portland State received a "Top 50 Green Colleges" ranking in the Princeton Review's free 2018 Guide to 399 Green Colleges. The University was ranked 37th for its "exceptional commitment to sustainability." The Princeton Review annually surveys for the guide and selects schools based on their academic offerings, campus policies, initiatives, activities and career preparation for students.

PSU educators invited to Week of Teaching and Learning sessions

All teaching faculty, staff and graduate teaching assistants are invited to attend the first annual Week of Teaching, Nov. 7–9, a three-day celebration of Portland State educators highlighting innovative teaching practices across the University. From idea sharing to course design to in-depth discussions of community-based teaching, participants may choose from 16 sessions while connecting with fellow educators and teaching resources. Attendants are welcome to come and go as their schedule allows. Learn more and register on the event website.
