Drop-in conversation with the provost

Faculty and staff are invited to attend a drop-in session with Provost Sona Andrews to ask questions, share ideas and information, or to make introductions. The next session is from 1 to 2 p.m. Friday, April 15, in 258 Smith Union. The following month's session is scheduled for May 18 from noon to 1 p.m. in the same room.

Take back the day and night

Portland State students are taking back the night—and the day—for Sexual Assault Awareness Month in April. The events aim to engage the entire PSU community in the national conversation about how to prevent and respond to sexual assault on college campuses. For the first time, PSU students are planning a Take Back the Day Student Symposium, a day of free, student-led workshops before the annual Take Back the Night event on April 26. In the past year, PSU has hired a new coordinator for relationship and sexual violence prevention programs, trained the first nine peer advocates to support survivors and is conducting a campus climate survey about sexual violence.

Supervisor Social planned Thursday

Supervisors of student employees are invited to the second Supervisor Social Thursday networking event, 4:30-6 p.m. Thursday, April 14, at Rogue Hall Brewpub, 1717 SW Park Ave. Connect with other supervisors from across the campus and engage in conversations on topics including recruitment, retention and professional development for student employees.

New School of Public Health launches dean search, website

The new OHSU-PSU School of Public Health has launched a new website and a search for a founding dean. OHSU and PSU have been working together for more than four years to establish a School of Public Health that builds on the success of the joint Oregon Master in Public Health program. Twelve faculty, staff, students, community members and administrators from both campuses have agreed to serve on the search committee for the new dean, chaired by Karen Marrongelle, dean of the PSU College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Details about the search, the position, and how to apply or nominate a candidate are on the new school's website, www.ohsu-psu-sph.org.

New free Seed Library opens

Students, faculty and staff are welcome to check out free seeds to plant and grow from the new PSU Seed Library, operated by the Student Sustainability Center. The seed inventory includes 300 varieties of beans, peas, melons, pumpkins, lettuce, tomatoes, beets, flowers, herbs, medicinals, teas and more. Donations of more seeds to share with the community are also accepted. The library is located in Market Center Building Suite 128 and is open for limited hours during the week or by appointment. More information and open hours are available on the PSU Seed Library website.

Used items sought for student parents

Cleaning out your home or office this spring? Donate gently used items to the PSU Resource Center for Students with Children. The RCSC is accepting donations of toys, adult and children's clothing, children's books, housewares and school supplies for its upcoming Shop for Free event, where student families can pick up used items at no cost. Donations may be delivered to the RCSC in 462 Smith Union by Tuesday, April 19, and Shop for Free will be held April 20-21. Email sswc@pdx.edu with questions.

Changed names, acronyms for buildings

The Campus Planning Office recently announced that three campus buildings will have new names and codes (acronyms) effective April 25. The School of Business Administration will be known as the Karl Miller Center (KMC), Koinonia House will be Campus Public Safety (CPS) and the Extended Studies Building/XSB is now Parkmill (PKM). Banner, Odin, Cognos and other campus systems will use the new building names and codes after April 25.

Campus buildings under construction

With construction started on renovating the Peter Stott Center into the Viking Pavilion (pictured above), PSU personnel responsible for construction and safety want the Portland State community aware and cautious of the projects on campus. The pool in Stott Center is now being converted to a weight room, and major demolition is scheduled to begin the week of June 13. Construction continues on the Karl Miller Center as well as other smaller projects. These areas are posted for construction access only, and the campus community is encouraged to pay attention to signage that indicates changes and restroom availability, emergency exits, sidewalk closures and restrooms availability. Questions and concerns about the projects can be addressed to Mark Fujii for the Karl Miller Center, Kate Vance for the Viking Pavilion, and Karen Barnack for all other construction safety concerns.

Lead screening for children, mothers

All pregnant and breastfeeding mothers and children age 6 and under are invited to a free blood-lead screening from 2 to 5 p.m. Wednesday, April 20, in 327 Smith Union. Services for Students with Children is partnering with Multnomah County Environmental Health Program to offer the screening. The quick finger-prick test will detect micrograms of lead per deciliter of blood, and on-site results will be available within minutes.

CURRENTLY IS PUBLISHED online every Monday during the academic year. News items should be sent to the Office of University Communications (mail code: UCOMM; e-mail address: currently@pdx.edu) by the Tuesday noon before publication.
