News

Remote instruction continues winter term

In a letter to campus, President Stephen Percy announced that the University will continue with mostly-remote instruction during winter term. While most courses and many services will be conducted virtually, in-person services such as the residence halls, the library, study spaces, child care, and health and wellness services will be available to students. Visit the New Way Forward site for faculty and staff for more information about what's open, teaching in a classroom, safety procedures and more.

When a student comes to class without a mask

Not sure what to do if a student comes to class without a mask? The Center for Student Health & Counseling (SHAC) in partnership with the Dean of Student Life Office created a training video to help you troubleshoot just that situation. For additional resources, please visit the Mask Up Campaign page.

Nominations sought for PSU Research Awards

Recognize the outstanding achievements of research faculty, graduate student mentors and research administrative professionals at Portland State by nominating a colleague for one of PSU's annual Research Awards. Name-only nominations are due to Research & Graduate Studies by Monday, Nov. 9. Nominations must be completed by Friday, Dec. 4. See the 2020 Research Award winners here.

Forum explores public health approaches to Oregon gun violence

Each year, at least 500 Oregonians die and another 1,000 are treated for injuries caused by firearms. Join Dr. Kathleen F. Carlson of the OHSU PSU School of Public Health, Zev Braun, director of policy and programs at State of Safety, and Nike Greene, director of Portland's Office of Youth Violence Prevention on Oct. 21 from 6:30-8 p.m. as they discuss inclusive public health approaches to gun violence prevention. Register to receive a link to this online event.

Basketball season schedules released

This March, the Big Sky basketball tournament was canceled hours before PSU's men's team—on a six-game winning streak—took the court. The Vikings will finally play again, now that the Big Sky Conference has released men's and women's basketball schedules for 2020-21. The reduced 27-game season begins in early December; the first home games are Dec. 31. For details, see the Portland State Athletics website.

The Writing Center is open

The PSU Writing Center is open, and all fall term appointments are being conducted online. Consultants can help writers at any step in the process, from generating ideas to the final polish. The Writing Center's website also offers a variety of resources for students and instructors, including tips for creating and responding to writing assignments.

Tune in to the Mindful Meanderings podcast

Campus Rec and the Center for Student Health & Counseling have teamed up to bring you Mindful Meanderings — a podcast aimed at expanding your daily mindfulness practice as you get outside to walk during this year's 31-day Walktober challenge and beyond. Listen in to practice gratitude, find joy and be present in the moment. Enjoy weekly podcasts through October, and bi-weekly releases of new episodes throughout the rest of fall term.

PSU in the News

The Oregonian turned to Jeanne Enders of PSU's School of Business to explain a tech company's credibility problem; Charlotte Fritz, psychology faculty, outlined the perils of the disappearing lunch break for Psychology Today; and Kate Bingamann Burt from the School of Art + Design appeared in the Sunday New York Times with an encouragement to use drawing to document life.
