

SEXUAL MISCONDUCT CAMPUS CLIMATE SURVEY RESULTS*

1 out of 7 undergraduate women reported some form of sexual violence while attending Portland State University.

of trans & non-binary undergraduate respondents experienced sexual violence while at PSU.

 Trans Men, Trans Women, Transgender, Genderqueer, Gender Non-Conforming

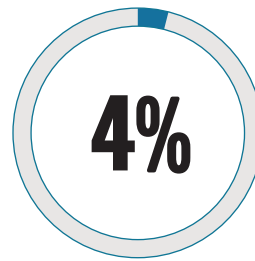

Of the women undergraduates who reported experiencing sexual violence:

54% reported that the perpetrator was not a PSU student or employee.

36% reported that the perpetrator was another student at Portland State.

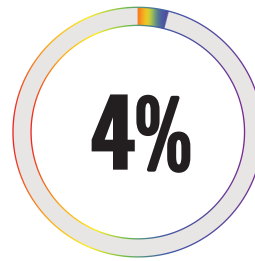

9% declined to answer, or otherwise did not provide a response to this question.

1% reported that the perpetrator was a faculty or staff member at Portland State.

of men undergraduate respondents reported experiencing a form of sexual violence while at PSU.

 Four percent may underestimate the number of men experiencing sexual violence as it is based on 21% fewer male respondents than recommended for adequate sampling.

of queer student respondents reported experiencing sexual violence while at PSU.

 Asexual, Bisexual, Gay, Lesbian, Queer

Student respondent familiarity with Portland State campus resources:

Confidential Resources for Students

Interpersonal Violence (IPV) Advocates: (503) 725-5672
Center for Student Health and Counseling: (503) 725-2800

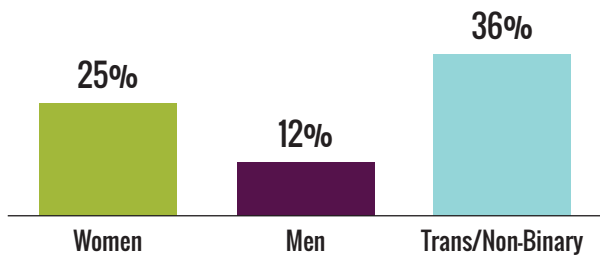

Non-Confidential Resources & Reporting

Julie Caron, PSU Title IX Coordinator: (503) 725-4410
Office of the Dean of Student Life: (503) 725-4422
Office of Global Diversity & Inclusion, Equity & Compliance: (503) 725-5919

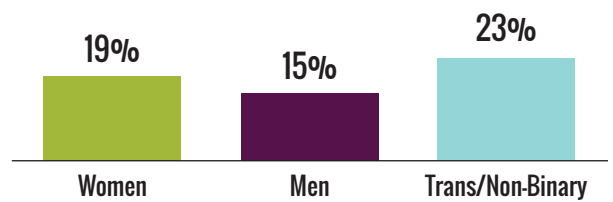

SEXUAL MISCONDUCT CAMPUS CLIMATE SURVEY RESULTS*: PREVENTION

Bystander Intervention:

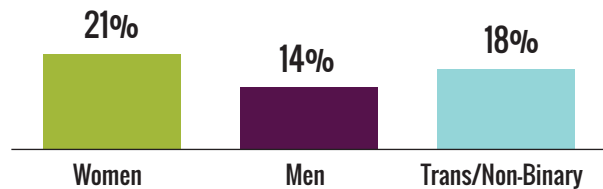

Bystander intervention, or being an active bystander, is an approach that develops awareness, skills, and courage to intervene in situations when another individual needs help. In the survey, students reported intervening in less than 30% of the active bystander scenarios. This reflects the need for students to engage in It's Our Place, PSU's bystander workshop.

Percentage of respondents who spoke up against sexually suggestive jokes.

Percentage of respondents who walked an intoxicated friend home.

Percentage of respondents who talked to friends of a drunk person to make sure they did not leave the person behind/alone.

Percentage of respondents who asked someone who looked upset at a party if they were okay or in need of help.

of student respondents were able to accurately identify behaviors that constituted CONSENT.

For more information about prevention workshops or to get involved:

Visit the ILLUMINATE website:
www.pdx.edu/shac/illuminate or contact Amy Kayon

Relationship & Sexual Violence
Prevention Coordinator

* Spring 2016, PSU invited 12,556 of its undergraduate and graduate students to participate in the survey and obtained a 19% response rate (2,370), which was consistent with federally recommended guidelines for overall sampling of students as part of campus climate assessments.