ESOL Endorsement Program
Question: Are ESOL Endorsement students demonstrating expected dispositions at the point of final practicum as measured by the pilot dispositional evaluation instrument?
Collect Data

Data Collection

Tools/Methods:

Data collected by field supervisors.
Analysis/Conclusions:
Of the 10 dispositions evaluated, 96% of all program completers were evaluated as “proficient” or “exemplary” across all dispositions evaluated. A minimum of 61% of all candidates were rated as “exemplary” for each disposition.

The disposition with the smallest proportion of candidates ranked as exemplary was 4a: Review, analyze and evaluate the success of past decisions to make better decisions in the future. Demonstrate responsiveness to feedback.
Action steps:

Consider the role of responding to feedback in course redesign and incorporate this into intended outcomes.

Conduct inter-rater reliability of dispositional scoring.

Review data and ask how our results compare with national NCATE/CAEP and TESOL standards. What opportunities do the national standards highlight for us in revising this dispositional evaluation?

Take Action
Reliability and Validity plan:

We will examine dispositional scoring guides used by nationally accredited programs and consider refining our instrument.

We will plan for inter-rater reliability of practicum-based dispositional scoring.
