Ask a Question

Question: Are ESOL Endorsement students demonstrating required knowledge and skills at the point of final practicum?
Data Collection Tools/Methods:

Data:

94% of the 50 program completers from Winter 2012- Winter 2013 scored proficient or exemplary on 10 or more of the 14 competencies required for successful completion of this endorsement.

Furthermore, 80% of program completers achieved evaluations of proficient or exemplary on all competencies.
Analysis/Conclusions:

Students appear to be demonstrating the required knowledge and skills for the ESOL Endorsement. A broader set of data (such as an evaluation of dispositions) may reveal areas where the program could be enhanced.
Action steps:

Compare to Fall 2011 data.

Consider inter-rater reliability of practicum scoring.

Consider what additional data will be useful in moving towards program review and redesign.

Take Action
Follow up from 2011-12 action items:

We are looking at a broader set of data (as recommended in Spring 2012).

We will continue to consider inter-rater reliability of practicum scoring and any other data that would assist with program redesign.
