Dear Applicant:

Thank you for your interest in the PSU Ronald E. McNair Scholars Program. This Program works with motivated and talented undergraduates who want to pursue PhDs. Through academic seminars and a summer research internship, the program introduces PSU juniors and seniors, who are first-generation and low-income, and/or members of under-represented groups, to academic research and to effective strategies for getting into and graduating from PhD programs.

Applications are due on Monday, May 5, 2014 for the program starting Winter term 2015. During Winter and Spring, awardees will be enrolled in a McNair Program Seminar designed to prepare scholars for academic research and graduate and doctoral studies. During Winter, Spring and Summer 2015, scholars will work closely with faculty mentors who will supervise their original research projects and papers.

Program benefits may include a stipend to complete an original research project during a summer internship, funding for research costs, opportunities to participate in academic research conferences as well as other scholarly activities, and membership in an active PSU McNair Scholar community.

- AND

OR

- If you are not first-generation and low-income, you must be a member of a group traditionally under-represented in Higher Education (African American, Hispanic/Latino, Native American, Native Alaskan, Native Hawaiian, or Pacific Islander)
