OHSU Clinical Genetics Internship
Description for Student Volunteer, Summer 2011

Location: Molecular Diagnostic Center (MDC), OHSU

Mentors: Sue Richards PhD, MDC Director and Professor, Department of Molecular and Medical Genetics, OHSU
Monique Johnson PhD, Assistant Professor, Department of Molecular and Medical Genetics, OHSU

Duration: Full time, approximately 6 weeks

Qualifications: BS or currently enrolled in a four year college, preferably in molecular biology, genetics, or related field; Familiarity with Excel and Web-based programs

Project Description:
1. Update genetic data bases (no previous experience specific to this required)
2. Analysis of patient variants regarding pathogenicity (no previous experience specific to this required)
3. Opportunities to observe a variety of clinical molecular genetic tests
4. Opportunities to observe cytogenetic tests

Salary: This position is offered as an unpaid internship in Clinical Genetics

Contact: Dr. Monique Johnson (johnsmon@ohsu.edu)
In initial contact please include the following information: 1. educational status (current year in college, major/minor, and name of school); 2. completed or current coursework related to molecular biology/genetics; 3. date available to begin the internship; and 4. current contact information (phone, email).