The Rotman Research Institute at Baycrest and the Factor-Inwentash Faculty of Social Work at the University of Toronto currently have an opportunity for a

Postdoctoral Fellowship in Gerontological Social Work

Time split between the Rotman Research Institute, Baycrest & The Factor-Inwentash Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto
Non-union
For two years (70 hours bi-weekly)

The Rotman Research Institute of Baycrest and the Factor-Inwentash Faculty of Social Work at the University of Toronto are offering one joint research fellowship in gerontological social work in the laboratory of Dr. Deirdre Dawson at the Rotman Research Institute and with Professor Esme Fuller-Thomson at the FIFSW at University of Toronto. The starting date is between September 2014 and January 2015. This training opportunity provides broad exposure to expertise in both a research-intensive university faculty of social work and an internationally recognized academic health sciences centre. The duration of the fellowship is two years, with the option of continuing for a third year. Bursaries are in line with the fellowship scales of the Canadian Institutes of Health Research and include an allowance for travel and research expenses. Applicants should have a PhD in social work or an MSW in social work and a PhD in a related field. The Rotman Research Institute and the University of Toronto welcome applications from all qualified individuals, including members of visible groups, minorities, women, aboriginal persons, and persons with disabilities. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority.

Applicants should submit a CV and relevant reprints, together with a cover letter describing current research interests and future research goals, and a list of three references who will be contacted for short-listed applicants, to:

Dean Faye Mishna, Factor-Inwentash Faculty of Social Work, University of Toronto, 246 Bloor Street West, Toronto, Ontario, M5S 1V4 Canada.
