Feminist Pedagogy, Diversity and Social Justice Education Symposium

April 22, 2011

The Symposium creates the opportunity for faculty and interested students to come together to discuss, analyze and think through teaching and learning from a feminist and or social justice standpoint.

#

Resistance: Pedagogy for Change?

The theme for this year's Symposium is Resistance in its multiple and intriguing forms.

Keynote Speaker:
Susan Rankin, PhD

Nationally known scholar and activist on social justice issues focusing specifically on issues of race, class, gender, disabilities, sexual orientation, gender identity, & other underserved communities

Portland State University
Smith 3rd Floor
April 22nd, 2011 9am – 6pm

Registration will be open beginning 3/28.
We look forward to engaging with you!
For more information, go to: www.pdx.edu/ws/events or http://wgss2011.wordpress.com

Sponsored by the Women, Gender, & Sexuality Studies Program
Co-sponsored by University Studies