This Funding Opportunity Announcement (FOA) encourages applications that propose the complete planning, design, and preparation of the documentation necessary for implementation of investigator-initiated clinical trials. The trials should be hypothesis-driven, milestone-defined, related to the research mission of the NIAID and considered high priority by the Institute. Investigators are encouraged to visit the NIAID website for additional information about the research mission and high-priority research areas of the NIAID (http://www3.niaid.nih.gov/about/whoWeAre/planningPriorities/).

Transitional Living Program Special Population Demonstration Project: LGBTQ Runaway and Homeless Youth and Young Adults Who Have Left Foster Care After Age 18; Application Deadline: August 1, 2016; https://ami.grantsolutions.gov/view/HHS-2016-ACF-ACYF-LG-1185

The Administration for Children and Families' (ACF), Administration on Children, Youth and Families' (ACYF), Family and Youth Services Bureau (FYSB) announces a 24 month demonstration project period to implement, enhance, and/or support a framework or model to promote the effective transition from homeless youth to self-sufficient young adults. The target populations are LGBTQ youth experiencing homelessness between the ages of 16 to 21 and young adults who have left foster care after the age of 18 up to age 21, but may need alternative housing and services.

This funding opportunity announcement (FOA) issued by the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health and Human Development invites grant applications from institutions/organizations willing to participate with the NICHD as the Data Coordinating Center under a cooperative agreement in an ongoing multi-center international research network designed to perform randomized clinical trials, using common protocols, to reduce the major risk of maternal, neonatal, infant, and early childhood mortality and significant morbidity in low income countries.

This Focus Grant will be awarded to a researcher, or group of researchers, to study potential pathways and interventions that can significantly reduce the national suicide rate if ultimately implemented on a large scale.

CALLS FOR ABSTRACTS AND PAPERS

We are seeking submissions from scholars and practitioners that address at least one of the following areas of interest: Activism related to vigilantism, policing, the court process, and/or incarceration; Community expectations of police and the judicial system; Implicit and explicit biases (as held by law enforcement officers, vigilantes, and/or larger society); Insider/outsider experiences amongst law enforcement members; Intersectional analyses of emergent law enforcement issues; Policing in Black and Brown communities; Race, gender, class, and police policies; Recruitment of racial and ethnic minorities to policing agencies and/or law enforcement fields; Under examined issues shaping law enforcement members; Vigilantism.

Call for Papers: Special Issue of LGBT Health - LGBT Aging; Deadline: October 17, 2016; http://files.ctctcdn.com/d7a77ed001/bbbe96ea-50a2-43eb-bea9-9562b9eb0e1.pdf

The objectives of this special issue are to address the health needs of older (age 60 and over) LGBT adults and contribute to the developing evidence base in this important area of research. We encourage the submission of intervention studies and clinically relevant articles that address health promotion and disease prevention, early detection, and treatment.

http://www.icpsr.umich.edu/icpsrweb/sumprog/courses/0219

Early Head Start Family and Child Experiences Survey (Baby FACES) is a descriptive study of Early Head Start programs designed to inform policy and practice at both national and local levels. Baby FACES followed two cohorts of children through their time in Early Head Start, starting in 2009, the first wave of data collection, through age 3, with the final round of data collected in spring 2012. Baby FACES project leads from Mathematica Policy Research will instruct this two-day data training, which will introduce researchers to the study's objectives, methods, instruments, key findings, and data structure.

REPORTS, PUBLICATIONS & RESOURCES

Center for Poverty Research Brief - Supporting Motherhood Capital Could Benefit Children;

This brief outlines a new study involving interviews with low-income Mexican immigrant mothers with limited English skills to understand informal barriers in education and healthcare settings as they advocated on behalf of their children. The study suggests that mothers are most effective in a less bureaucratized setting and when staff recognize how deeply they care for and understand their children.
