Are you interested in patient–centered outcomes and comparative effectiveness research? Are you thinking about applying to the Patient Centered Outcomes Research Institute? Join us for an informal panel discussion with OHSU faculty and staff who have participated in the PCORI review process or had their work funded by a PCORI grant.
The discussion will cover strategies for writing a successful PCORI grant as well as how PCORI-funded projects differ from federally funded research. Panelists include:

John McConnell, director of the OHSU Center for Health Systems Effectiveness
Katie Wilkes, manager of OHSU Research Funding and Development Services
Vance Bauer, OCHIN research operations director
Sonja Likumahuwa, Department of Family Medicine and OCHIN
