For a senior in a retirement home or a young cancer patient facing long-term hospital treatments, a piano concert can provide a pleasant distraction or even what music professor Susan Chan calls “piano music for the soul.” Along with gaining the piano chops necessary to follow their professor’s footsteps to Carnegie Hall, students in Chan’s piano courses join her in sharing their talents through a community engagement grant that brings recitals to local nursing homes and hospitals.

> pdx.edu/insidepsu